1. Introduction

1.1 Public Service Commission

The Public Service Commission was established on 1 November 2011.

The Commission's primary responsibilities can be summarised as:

- Establishing and protecting public sector values and ethical standards
- Driving a customer-focused culture across the public sector
- Focusing on recruitment and retention
- Upholding the principle of merit.

The broad goals of the Commission are to:

- Develop the capability of the workforce through policies and frameworks in areas of recruitment, retention, and culture
- Set and promulgate public service standards for merit and ethics
- Understand and shape the parameters of the public service workforce of the future
- Provide authoritative evidence, data and tools concerning the sector to assist agency decision making.

1.2 What is the Workforce Profile?

The Workforce Profile is a data collection on the characteristics of NSW public sector employment. It includes demographic information such as age, gender, diversity group membership and work location; as well as employment information such as hours worked, leave patterns, remuneration and mobility within the sector. Workforce Profile data has been collected annually since 1999.

The Workforce Profile is a single source of data for specific analyses and reports required by central agencies, for example, the Employment Equity and Workforce Diversity collection.

An essential component of the Workforce Profile Collection is the standardisation of Full Time Equivalent (FTE). Standardising the methodology using information collected from an agency's HR system enables comparative analysis across the Public Sector.

1.3 Which agencies are included in the Workforce Profile?

All government sector agencies, including State Owned Corporations (SOCs) are required to participate in the Workforce Profile Collections. Agencies external to the government sector are also encouraged to participate. The benefits of a whole-of-sector data collection are significant in providing a complete picture of the public sector.

Sections 16 and 63 of the Government Sector Employment Act 2013 provide the Public Service Commissioner with the lawful basis to collect workforce profile data.

1.4 What is the timing of the Workforce Profile Collection?

The annual Workforce Profile Collection is conducted in June each year.

1.5 Workforce Information Warehouse

The Public Service Commission's Workforce Information project built on the Workforce Profile to deliver a new Workforce Information Warehouse (WIW) and collection mechanism in June 2012 which significantly improved the collection of, and ability to report on, workforce information. The WIW is designed to be a flexible and extensible strategic information resource to underpin policy and strategy development for the NSW Government. It incorporates data from additional sources such as Australian Bureau of Statistics and the I work for NSW e-recruitment system, with more to follow.

1.6 What is produced from the Workforce Profile data?

An annual Workforce Profile report on the NSW public sector has been produced since the establishment of the collection, providing a broad overview of the data, including statistical reports and analyses. This report is a public document that assists with workforce management and planning.

Since 2012, the Public Service Commissioner's annual State of the Sector report to the Premier has also included analysis of the public sector workforce data.

Broadly, information provided by the Workforce Profile is the foundation to benchmarking for evidence-based workforce planning and employment policy development at both agency and sector-wide level. It also provides a reliable means to assess the effect of any social or economic trends on the composition of the sector's workforce, the need for new employment policies, procedures or systems, and the impact of any that are introduced.

Workforce Profile data is also used by PSC analysts to answer ad-hoc information requests from public sector bodies and stakeholders to support strategic workforce planning and comply with the Government Information (Public Access) Act.

2. Privacy

2.1 Confidentiality issues

As the Workforce Profile collects information on individual employees in the NSW public sector, it is essential to guarantee anonymity and confidentiality in reporting.

Part 3, Division 1, Section 17(5) of the Government Sector Employment Act 2013 mandates the responsibility of the Public Service Commissioner.

'(5) The Commissioner is, to the extent that it is reasonable and practicable to do so, to remove any personal information from any report or other document prepared by the Commissioner under this Part that is, or is to be, publicly available. In this subsection, personal information means information about an individual whose identity is apparent, or can reasonably be ascertained, from the information.'

A Privacy Code of Practice was developed for the NSW Public Sector Workforce Profile to regulate the use, access and disclosure of Workforce Profile data in accordance with the requirements of the NSW Privacy Act 1998. This is set out in the document 'The Privacy Code of Practice for the Public Service Commission'.

A Health Privacy Code of Practice has also been developed which modifies the application to the Public Service Commission of certain health privacy principles. This is set out in the document 'Health Privacy Code of Practice for the Public Service Commission'.

A copy of these Codes is available at: <http://www.ipc.nsw.gov.au/privacy-codes-practice>

An anonymous unique identifier is assigned to each employee by the employing agency. Employee names are not collected or provided as part of the data.

All employees must be advised, by their agency, of the proposed inclusion of their data (including diversity data) in the Workforce Profile and of the provisions put in place to protect privacy and ensure confidentiality.

Suggested steps to advise employees

1. Make sure you develop an approach to disseminating information that suits the nature of your own agency. Aspects to consider include:
  - How best to ensure that all relevant employees are reached, including those on extended periods of leave. Possibly a combination of methods will be needed (e.g., email, circular, letter, briefing session).
  - Content of the message: You should adapt this to suit your agency's circumstances but please retain the main elements of: what is the workforce profile and what is collected; the purpose of the collection being to provide a useful workforce planning tool at whole-of-sector and agency level; the privacy of and limited access to raw data.
  - The contact officer for enquiries: This officer should be well informed about the Workforce Profile and able to address questions raised by employees. Experience from previous collections suggests that concerns raised by employees were allayed in almost all cases by factual information about the collection and the privacy protection arrangements.
  - How to action any requests for withholding of data and make sure relevant records are not included in the data return.
2. Wherever possible, give local union delegates prior notice of information to be distributed to relevant employees. (NOTE: Staff Association peak bodies have given full support to the Workforce Profile Collection).
3. Ensure an appropriate senior executive signs' off on any information notice you plan to distribute.

4. Make sure the information goes out as soon as possible so that employees have sufficient time to discuss concerns, raise issues or request that their data be omitted from the collection.

2.2 Access for the Workforce Profile data

The Analytics Services team within the Public Service Commission is responsible for conducting the collection. Only PSC employees (and, if applicable, contractors) directly involved in the development, collection and/or analysis of the Workforce Profile have access to the raw data and are bound by the access and confidentiality agreements referred to in the Code of Practice and Privacy Protection Arrangements.

From 2016 agencies received access to their own de-identified data through the PSC Workforce dashboards.

2.3 How to handle withheld records

Under the Privacy Code's provisions, employees may elect to withhold part of their data from the Collections. Items that are required for the accurate calculation of the size and cost of the workforce are compulsory items and must not be withdrawn.

Please refer to the data definitions for data items that may be withdrawn. For allowable data items that an employee requests to be withheld in the Workforce Profile Collections, please insert the code '-9999'.

3. Definitions

3.1 Employees included in the Workforce Profile Collection

The Workforce Profile Collection population is defined as:

- ✓ All ongoing staff, including ongoing statutory appointees
- ✓ All temporary staff, except temporary staff provided by employment agencies
- ✓ All casual staff who undertook paid work at some time during the reference period
- ✓ Staff on secondment (to and from the agency). The seconded employee's home agency should report the employee if it pays 51% or more of their employment-related costs. The receiving agency should report the employee if it pays 51% or more of their employee-related costs
- ✓ Apprentices, trainees, and cadets
- ✓ Staff on leave (paid or unpaid)
- ✓ Retained staff
- ✓ Departmental Liaison Officers who are current employees of an agency and are based within a Minister's Office and paid through the agency's payroll

3.2 Employees excluded from the Workforce Profile Collection

The Workforce Profile Collection population is defined as:

- ✗ Members of boards and committees
- ✗ Casual staff who did not undertake paid work at any time during the reference period
- ✗ Temporary staff supplied by an employment agency on a fee for services basis (also known as contingent labour). This data is collected separately.
- ✗ Contractors and consultants engaged on a fee for service basis including Visiting Medical Officers, etc
- ✗ Volunteers
- ✗ People on work experience
- ✗ Staff who separated from the agency prior to the annual reference period even if they received a payment during the reference period
- ✗ Ministers' personal staff

NOTE: the term 'employee' is used throughout this document to refer to both ongoing and temporary employees for the sake of simplicity.

3.3 Reference population

All employees employed at the agency during the reference period.

The reference period starts on the day following the last pay date of the previous financial year (i.e., the day after the previous annual Workforce Profile reference period ended).

The reference period ends on the census date as notified by the Public Service Commission. The census date is the last pay date of the financial year.

NOTE: The start and end dates of the reference period may differ across agencies subject to their payroll cycles.

3.4 Census period population

All employees employed at any time during the last pay fortnight of the reference period.

3.5 Census date population

All employees considered to be an employee of the agency on the census date. This data is designed to provide a 'snapshot' of the sector and the information is captured using Item 3h. This item relates to the status of the employee on the actual last pay day of the reference period.

NOTE: For agencies that do not have the ability to determine if the employee was working on the last pay day, then status during the last pay fortnight of the reference period, the census population, should be used to reflect the status of the employee.

3.6 Employment arrangements

A non-casual employee's employment arrangement is classified by full-time or part-time status.

Full-time: Employees are considered to be full-time if they work 35 hours a week or more.

Part-time: Employees are considered to be part-time if they work less than 35 hours a week.

3.7 What is a record?

The Workforce Profile Collection collects and reports on data about individual employees. One record is created for each employee employed within an agency at any time during the reference period. This record records information about each employee's employment history during the period, as well as information current as at the end of the period. In general, one record is created for each employee regardless of the number of episodes of employment that may have occurred for each employee within the agency. The exception to this rule is where the employee has simultaneously held more than one position within the agency during the period (i.e., two part-time positions).

3.8 Multiple records

To enable the collection of information about employees working in more than one position simultaneously (such as an ongoing employee working in another part-time or casual position for the same agency) additional records may be entered for these employees.

A multiple record should NOT be entered for employees changing employment status, such as changing employment categories, separating and then recommencing and/or transferring to another location within the agency.

NOTE: If your agency is considering the use of multiple records, please contact the PSC Analytics and Insights team for advice.

3.9 Full time equivalent (FTE) workforce

While an agency's workforce can be defined by the number of employees, this does not give a true picture of the capacity of its workforce. A better metric is Full-Time Equivalent (FTE) which measures the number of hours worked by an employee in a period, divided by the hours available to work in that same period. FTE considers various employment categories (e.g., ongoing, temporary, full-time, part-time, casual, and the variation between professions and industrial agreements).

FTE is defined as the equivalent of one position, continuously filled, full-time for the reference period, and which consists of any combination of full-time, part-time, and casual positions. This full-time FTE has a value of one. Employees working less than this full-time occupancy are expressed as a decimal fraction, or percentage, of a full-time FTE. There are situations where FTE may be greater than one (e.g., transport workers working 12 days in the census fortnight).

This standard definition is based on the total number of paid ordinary time hours worked (excludes overtime and unpaid work) and the total number of hours available to work. The FTE workforce is expressed as the total number of full-time employees required for all paid ordinary time hours worked. It is not a count of the number of employees (e.g., for a position where 37.5 hours each week is full-time, the FTE for paid ordinary time hours of 30.0 is 0.8 FTE and 37.5 hours is 1.0 FTE).

Total number of hours paid

(Weekly full-time award or contract hours) x (Number of weeks [Days/7])

Calculated using the same method for all employees, FTE is an accurate measure of resource levels across the NSW Public Sector. The PSC Analytics and Insights team measures FTE as an average for two periods:

- Reference period; and
- Last pay fortnight or census period (14 days).

The FTE is calculated by inserting the corresponding values from the Workforce Profile (WFP) into the equations. To calculate the census period FTE, the reference period is 14 (the days in the census pay period). The equation is shown reduced to its lowest term.

$$\text{ref FTE} = \left( \frac{3e \times 7}{3j \times 3k} \right)$$

$$\text{census FTE} = \left( \frac{3i}{3j \times 2} \right)$$

Code	Item / variable name
3e	Total Number of Hours worked Reference Period
3k	Number of days - Reference period
3j	Standard Weekly Full Time Award/Contract hours
3i	Total Hours Paid (Census Period)

Separated employees who do not have any census period hours paid will be calculated as having an FTE of '0'.

Differences between WFP FTE and Agency Human Resource Information Systems (HRIS) can be anticipated due to HRIS reporting FTE at a specific point in time based on position and employee occupancy. Remember, all WFP FTE is averaged over a period, even the census FTE, which is the last pay fortnight. Where an employee's FTE is greater than one and has been paid in advance or overpaid, agencies should adjust the paid hours items used to calculate the FTE, to reflect the employees' worked hours. If the hours are not adjusted, the agency FTE figures may be distorted. The alternate way to adjust FTE (if necessary) is by using the FTE override data items 8c and/or 8d.

3.10 Frontline positions

Currently, frontline positions (i.e., positions that provide services to external customers) are identified using codes from the first and third digits of the Position Code (item 3l). This methodology gives an estimate of frontline and non-frontline resources by capturing those positions which provide services to customers external to their agency. Based on this Position Code methodology, external customers of an agency can be either or both the general public and other government agencies.

The intention of capturing frontline positions was to identify resources used to provide services to the public. Therefore, a new data item was introduced from June 2016 – Frontline/Non-frontline Role/Position (3u). Agencies will now self-identify their frontline resources. Details and descriptions are provided in Section 5 – Data Definitions, item 3u.

The current methodology using Position Code will be retired if reliable data is received using item 3u.

3.11 Senior executives in acting arrangements

A number of workforce profile data items record the classification relating to an employee's role at census date.

For non-executive employees acting in senior executive roles for less than 3 consecutive months at census date, the applicable classification relating to their non-executive substantive position or assigned role is recorded for all data items.

For non-executive employees who had been acting in senior executive roles for more than 3 consecutive months at census date, the applicable classification relating to the executive role is recorded.

This applies to the following data items:

- Employing Legislation (3)
- Award Determining Salary Rate (3a)
- Employment Category (3g)
- Role or Position Grade (3r)
- Total Annual Base Remuneration (Current/Temporary Assigned Role or Current Position) (4b)

Note that Total Remuneration Package (4p) is coded as -8888, as this item is not applicable for short term senior executive acting arrangements.

- Numeric – this field must contain numbers only. These may be whole numbers (integers) or decimal numbers.

5.1 Biographical

1 Agency code

Description:

A unique reference number assigned to each Agency

Reason for collection

Data Management: Used with item 3o Division ID, the Agency Code allows authenticated users to make submissions.

Analysis / Reporting: Used with item 3o Division ID, the Agency Code is fundamental to the level at which analysis and reporting is conducted.

Codification

Unique agency code

If agency is unsure of this code, please contact the PSC Analytics and Insights Team at:

PSC\_DataCollection@psc.nsw.gov.au

Numeric (nnnn)

Validation

Must be a valid code assigned by PSC Analytics and Insights team

Range 1 to 9999

1a Unique identifier

Description

Unique reference code assigned to each employee by the Agency. The unique identifier is to be maintained from one collection period to the next.

Reason for collection

Data Management: Assists in the validation and auditing of submitted data.

Analysis / Reporting: Will allow for trends for specific employee groups to be identified.

Codification

Agency assigned unique identifier.

For multiple employments, report these as separate records but use the same unique identifier. See Page 7 for a detailed explanation.

Data format

Alphanumeric (any combination of characters and/or numbers that uniquely identifies an employee).

Validation

Must be unique.

1b Date of birth

Description

The employee's date of birth

Reason for collection

Analysis / Reporting: The age structure of the NSW Public Sector is monitored to determine the impact of the ageing population and workforce. The information is used for workforce planning and Workforce Profile Reports.

Codification

yyyymmdd where:

yyyy = Year of birth
mm = Month of birth
dd = Day of birth
-7777 = Missing

-7777 = Missing

-9999 = Withdrawn

Data format

Alphanumeric

1d Work location postcode

Description

The postcode of the employee's actual work location (or depot for field staff), not Post Box location. This item relates to the location of the employee's position that was current at the census date. For separated employees use, the last known location of the employee.

Reason for collection

Analysis / Reporting: This item is used to profile the location of the NSW Public Sector workforce, e.g. metropolitan versus regional; analysis of service provision and workforce mobility profiling, as well as providing a basis for a range of other geographic analysis.

Codification

Four-digit standard Australian postcode

-7777 = Missing

9999 = Employee working in a location without an Australian postcode (e.g., London, Tokyo)

3l Position Code

Description

A 7-digit WFP position code developed in 2001 by the then NSW Premier's Department as extension data to supplement the occupation code and describe how a resource is used. The code includes four components that classify:

- The type of duties performed by the position (1 char)
- The customer type of the team in which the position sits (1 char)
- The customer type receiving the services of the position (1 char)
- A description of service functions (2 chars + 2 chars)

This item relates to the position code for the position that was current at the census date.

This item must be obtained using the Position Coding Automated Tool (PCAT) found at: Position Coding Automated Tool \(PCAT\)

Reason for collection

Data Management: Can be used as a cross reference for Award (Item 3a), ANZSCO (Item 3m) and Treasury Special Code (Item 3n)

Analysis/Reporting: Together with ANZSCO, this item will provide valuable information for workforce and strategic planning, at both agency and whole of sector level. As the data is collected, as at census date, the item should not be reported as an average.

Used to determine frontline/non-frontline positions. Frontline positions can be identified using the criteria that the type of duty is service delivery (first digit is 1) and the position customer is external (third digit is 1). Further clarification can be found in the Definitions section at the front of this document.

Codification

7-digit WFP Position Code (from PCAT)

A copy of the Position Coding Guidelines can be found at: Position Coding Automated Tool \(PCAT\)

NOTE: ANZSCO has been implemented in relevant ABS and SNZ statistical collections from September 2006.

Reason for collection

Data Management: Can be used as a cross reference for Award (Item 3a) and Treasury Special Code (Item 3n)

Analysis/Reporting: Used to monitor changes in the occupational profile of the NSW Public Sector. Provides valuable information for workforce planning. As the code is an Australian standard, ANZSCO enables comparative profiling with other sectors in the labour market as well as other states and Commonwealth Governments.

Codification

Standard ANZSCO codes at the 6 digit-level.

Use the ABS search tool to find the correct code.
